

Hello everyone! In a meeting I have heard people say "I need to drop off the meeting"; and "I need to drop off to another meeting";, and I wonder if the use of drop off is correct in this context (to drop off a ...

Your choices (get off work, finish work, leave work) will all work fine finishing the question about a normal working day. I don't see much difference in formality, if any.

Do you say "get off the phone" only to someone who's talking on the phone with someone else? Or can it also be said to someone who's just playing with his phone, gaming, scrolling facebook etc?

"Hats off to you" is generally a safe and well-understood way to express your appreciation and respect in contemporary English, including in work-related emails to colleagues of any gender. Your intention ...

Yeah. It's not too common though. The two most common formulations are: I get off work at 5. and I get off of work at 5. At least where I live, "get off from" is used, but not as readily as those two.
